Growing up in the Czech Republic, Jan Bednar had big dreams. American dreams. Dreams that followed him to the United States, and, ultimately, Florida Atlantic University in South Florida. Once at school, it didn't take long for his friends and family back home to reach out to him with a simple request: “Can you send me what you've got?”

You see, many U.S. merchants refused deliveries to the Czech Republic, usually due to prohibitive shipping costs or restricted payment methods. By ordering online and shipping directly to Jan, who would then forward that order to an international address, customers were able to purchase products they would not otherwise have had access to.

This experience prompted Jan to create BedaBox, a company that focused on package-forwarding for global clients. Because BedaBox was profitable from day one and was founded on solid principles, it had no trouble winning two important distinctions: the FAU Business Plan Competition and the Florida Venture Forum Collegiate Competition. This success, coupled with Jan's acceptance to Tech Runway, FAU's accelerator program, helped launch BedaBox to new and exciting heights.

Along the way, Jan came across a tremendous opportunity: technology-focused order fulfillment that allowed eCommerce businesses to concentrate on what they were truly passionate about. At the time, most logistics providers weren't equipped with the user-friendly technology and high-quality services that merchants needed to scale.

Thus, out of a need for a comprehensive solution in one of the world's fastest-growing industries, ShipMonk was born.

In late 2015, ShipMonk moved out of FAU Tech Runway and into a 23,000 sq. ft. facility in Pompano Beach, but, in no time at all, we outgrew the space and set our sights on something bigger. Over the years, we've continued to launch new warehouses and upgrade existing ones, bringing our total square footage to just under 1 million. In mid-2019, we inaugurated our new headquarters in Fort Lauderdale, FL, which is where we remain today.

In late 2020 and early 2021, we checked off a major company milestone by securing $355Min growth equity funding.
Our Journey

What's next for ShipMonk? Only time will tell, but all signs point to a bright path ahead. With a steadfast focus on continuous expansion, it's safe to say that we're looking forward to the future.
Our Mission

We are continuing to expand and grow — but we don’t want growth for growth’s sake. Our ShipMonk family works together with one goal in mind: to help you Stress Less and Grow More.
Features + Value Propositions

Powerful Software

We're not the first order fulfillment company to help business owners save time and money, but we are the first to bring modern technology to the logistics space. Rather than just improving what is currently being offered, we approach the market with the mindset of revolutionizing an entire industry. From API integrations to inventory management, our proprietary software gives merchants full control over the fulfillment process.

Cost-Effective & 2-Day Shipping

Our extensive background and professional network within the shipping industry allow us to provide best-in-class service and superior rates. Because we negotiate heavily discounted prices with the world's top carriers, we're able to pass on major savings to our customers and their customers. This gives merchants control over their shipping costs as well as invaluable peace of mind that their orders will always be delivered on time.
We realize that eCommerce brands require special attention, whether it's to gain traction or to transition into full-blown growth. That's exactly why we created Happiness Engineers, a.k.a. dedicated account managers who are expertly trained in logistics, eCommerce, and order fulfillment. Each and every ShipMonk merchant is assigned a Happiness Engineer, who will be there to welcome them in the beginning and answer any questions or concerns they may have along the way.

Dedicated Support

We've gone to great lengths to utilize the most advanced technology to optimize our picking efforts. In addition to pick-to-light and pick-by-voice capabilities, we've implemented a combination of storage and retrieval machines (SRMs) along with Locus robots to deliver higher productivity, lower labor costs, and unimaginable scalability.

Warehouse Automation

To create a memorable experience for our merchants, each order can be branded according to individual guidelines. After packing orders as they normally would, our team is able to include final touches like gift messaging, specialty materials, stickers, and promotional inserts. Our packing stations are even equipped with cameras to maintain authenticity throughout.
